I vaguely recall Jim working on this before --- and something to the effect that a written response was not prepared.....

If you want, I'll check further on this ? ??

Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Director Casey:

STAT
STAT
The purpose of my letter is to inform you of the continued outstanding performance over the past year of [redacted] a member of your Senior Intelligence Service. As you may recall, [redacted] was detailed to the Department of Labor at the request of former Secretary of Labor Raymond J. Donovan in September, 1981. Both my predecessor, former Assistant Secretary Thorne G. Auchter, and I have requested extensions of [redacted] service here.

STAT
Over the past year, [redacted] has consistently demonstrated his understanding of the forces in both the private and public sectors which affect occupational safety and health. His advice and support have been invaluable to me in shaping and directing policy and in helping me to carry out my responsibilities to the Secretary and the President. His professional expertise in program planning and evaluation, and his demonstrated capability in managing the conduct of regulatory analysis, legislative affairs, statistical studies, and interagency and international program development and coordination has enabled him to resolve successfully specific management problems in these areas and to contribute dynamically to the resolution of agency-wide management problems. He is a skillful manager and makes judicious use of people, funds and material to accomplish the goals and objectives of this Administration.

STAT
In recognition of his continued outstanding performance, I am recommending that [redacted] receive a senior executive bonus of $10,000. I have directed that these funds be transferred to your Agency for dispersal, assuming you concur in this recommendation. Mr. Director, on behalf of the Secretary and myself, we want to thank you for providing us with the services of an outstanding senior executive.

Sincerely,

Robert A. Rowland
